Hancock County Narcotics Agents on Wednesday arrested 51-year-old Andre Meguel Daniels of Bay St. Louis after finding a four-year-old child in a bedroom that also contained "multiple baggies of suspected methamphetamine packaged for sale," Bill Covington, commander of the Narcotics and Special Operations Division said in a release.

Hancock County narcotics agents executed a search warrant at a residence in the 400 block of Bookter Street after weeks long investigation into complaints of illegal drugs being sold in the area, including the tar-

The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy (HYLA) High School Program Class of 2019 embarked on a college cruise, generously sponsored by Walmart, on September 17th and 18th in order to tour state colleges and universities and get a glimpse of higher education opportunities in the state. "This is most student's favorite session! It provides them with the opportunity to see what Mississippi has to offer in the college arena," says director Rhonda Rhodes.

On September 17, 2019, the group traveled to University of Southern Mississippi where they met with faculty from the College of Nursing and then toured the new state-of-the-art Clinical Simulation lab. There, the HYLA students observed the environment where nursing students receive valuable hands-on medical experience in a simulated hospital setting complete with 28 beds, an operating room, and a labor and delivery room. The visit was complete with a tour of the entire campus and lunch at the Fresh Food Company.

From Hattiesburg, the leadership group traveled to Oxford and spent the night at The Inn at Ole Miss. Students were able to walk around The Square and ate dinner at the Old Venice Pizza Company. The next morning the group was treated to a campus tour which included an up-close look at The Center for Manufacturing Excellence. The CME is developing interdisciplinary educational opportunities within an innovative academic learning model

Hayao Miyazaki: Storyteller, Director, Artist

Have you ever heard of this man? You may have heard his name a few times, but never really knew anything about him or the art he creates. Thanks to the efforts of the Walt Disney Corporation, and now GKIDS, the animation of Hayao Miyazaki and Studio Ghibli is now available to a worldwide audience. Some have called Miyazaki the “Walt Disney of Japan,” but his brand of storytelling and artistry puts his animation in a class all its own. From flying castles to bathhouses for spirits and a struggle between humanity and nature to life in a country on the brink of war, his films’ stories fascinate and capture the heart and his animation touches the soul and provides a feast for the eyes. If I had the room I would write a synopsis for every film he has directed, but I’d like to share with you some of my favorites.

I was about 16 years old when I first heard about Miyazaki. I had read his name in an entertainment magazine review of his latest movie, a film titled “Spirited Away.” The review was a rave, and I was intrigued because I was interested in world animation at the time. After seeing the film in the theater, I was awestruck and hungry for more.

The film’s story centers around a young Japanese girl named Chihiro, who is moving with her parents to a new city. When her father takes a wrong turn, the family winds up at a gateway to the spirit world, a seemingly abandoned amusement park and bathhouse resort. After her parents suffer an unfortunate event, Chihiro is trapped in the spirit realm until she can summon the courage and work out her problems. As she gains confidence and inner strength, she makes unlikely friends and acquires resolve to rescue her parents. “Spirited Away” won the Academy Award for the Best Animated Feature film category in 2002. In protest of the American involvement of the Iraq War, Miyazaki was not there to accept the award.

After watching “Spirited Away,” I set out to discover more movies Miyazaki directed. His next film I saw had been released a few years earlier. I vaguely remember “Princess Mononoke” being in select theaters, but I had to purchase a copy of the DVD to see it for myself.

I was again floored by the story and animation. “Princess Mononoke” is set in a fantastical version of feudal Japan and opens with a young prince named Ashitaka trying to defend his village from a rampaging forest demon. After Ashitaka realizes the demon is in fact a corrupted forest spirit, he is forced to kill the spirit, but not before he himself is corrupted by the dark, amorphous blob bleeding from the beast’s carcass. Forced to leave his

Wicker Secures Relief for Mississippi Disaster Victims

Helping Restore the Gulf Coast

Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross recently sent welcome news to Mississippi’s fishing communities. The declaration of a federal fisheries disaster for our state at the end of September will open up relief for those affected by the ongoing crisis on the Gulf Coast.

After historic rainfall and the unprecedented 123-day opening of the Bonnet Carré Spillway earlier this year, fresh water streamed into the Gulf, devastating the local ecosystem, causing massive losses of marine wildlife, and shutting down fishing operations and other businesses. Federal funds will help Mississippi’s world-renowned fishermen begin to come back from one of the toughest seasons on record.

I have worked on behalf of Mississippians on this issue for many months, and I am glad to see progress. In June Congressman Steven Palazzo and I wrote in support of Governor Phil Bryant’s request for a disaster declaration, and all six senators from Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama joined together in July to send a letter urging Secretary Ross to help restore the Gulf Coast.

SOLUTIONS TO THE CRISIS

This declaration’s urgency is apparent to anyone who has been paying attention. I have seen firsthand how the introduction of fresh water into the Gulf of Mexico has hurt our state’s signature seafood industry. Between 89 and 100 percent of oysters on Mississippi harvest reefs have died, shrimp landings are down by 50 percent, and harmful algae have closed entire beachfronts, leaving hotels and restaurants vacant at the height of tourist season.

When we request this kind of declaration, we are often frustrated by delays. Even after a disaster is declared, it can often take several months for actual help to arrive. Though relief efforts are advancing in this case, this situation has revealed once again that the fisheries disaster declaration process is in urgent need of reform. To fix this problem, I have introduced the Fishery FUNDD Act, which would streamline the process and ensure that strict deadlines are enforced.

This bill would also allow fishermen – those most clearly affected by these disasters – to receive direct financial support. Under existing law, payments typically go only to larger organizations, state agencies, or restoration projects. As Mississippi Commercial Fisheries United’s Ryan Bradley said of the Fishery FUNDD Act, “This much-needed reform to the nation’s antiquated fishery disaster relief program is crucial to protecting our coastal communities and ensuring that those most impacted by fishery disasters can receive the timely assistance they so desperately need.”

As chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, I convened a hearing to examine “Fishery Failures: Improving the Disaster Declaration and Relief Process.” Executive Director for the Mississippi Department of Resources Joe Spraggins testified, providing details about the extent of the damage so that my colleagues on Capitol Hill can better understand what is happening on our

The Republic of West Florida

With the Louisiana Purchase of 1803, it was assumed that the area known as West Florida was a part of the United States. However, Spain claimed the lands as her own.

Ultimately in 1810, citizens of West Florida revolted from Spain and set up their own country known as the Republic of West Florida.

From most accounts the land was claimed by the United States, governed by the Spanish, and inhabited by the French and English with a sprinkling of other European settlers.

The treaty at the conclusion of the Seven Years’ War (French and Indian War) in 1763 gave Britain the Spanish colony of Florida and other former French colonial lands of Louisiana and the Mississippi and Alabama Gulf Coasts.

These were reorganized into the provinces of East Florida and West Florida. Essentially West Florida included the Florida Panhandle, the lower “heels” of Alabama and Mississippi, and the eastern portion of Louisiana roughly from Baton Rouge south to the mouth of the Mississippi River.

The new British lands brought many new settlers into the area who proved to be Loyalists during the American Revolution.

The Treaty of Paris at the end of the war returned the lands of West Florida to Spain and reset the northern boundary to its original 31st parallel. But Spain wanted the northern boundary to be at 32 degrees 22 minutes north latitude instead, roughly halfway between present day Natchez and Vicksburg.

It was not until 1795 with the Treaty of Lorenzo that Spain recognized the border as the 31st parallel. Another chapter in the story is that in 1800 Spain returned its Louisiana Colony to France with the secret Treaty of San Ildefonso.

The transaction “muddied the waters” because with the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 the United States considered West Florida its property. Yet Spain also claimed it.

The Spanish letters of The Lower Mississippi Data Base give evidence of “stress” between the United States and Spain from 1805 to 1810. Various incidents and encounters between the two countries reveal that both claimed the area of West Florida and its adjacent waters of the Gulf of Mexico. Local historians Russell Guerin and Marco Giardino, Ph.D., have reviewed many of the letters in detail and made the following observation: One such letter “dated August 5, 1808, described an action by four American gunboats that came to Cat Island.

Their crew killed various cattle and other livestock belonging to [Pedro] Morin. Also, they went to Pass Christian where they killed a cow belonging to Jose Labat. In addition, the American captain of one vessel demanded that a Spanish schooner submit to an inspection and was very angry when told he had no right in Spanish waters.”

President James Madison followed Thomas Jefferson’s belief that the area would eventually become a part of the United States. Even though the United States and Spain continued negotiations concerning the rightful owner of West Florida, tensions continued to rise with more American settlers moving into the area. The new inhabitants and earlier British settlers resented being under Spanish rule.

As a result of this resentment, the idea of rebellion against Spain began to circulate among the populace. In fact in 1804 there had been an

MISSISSIPPI IS RECOVERING

This year has been particularly hard for many Mississippians affected by extreme weather. When Americans' livelihoods are compromised by major disasters, the federal government steps in help. The Fishery FUNDD Act and the Commerce Committee's work are steps to get Mississippi fishermen and their families back on their feet.

I am grateful to Secretary Ross for the Commerce Department's efforts. With this latest declaration and dedicated support, Mississippi's fishermen will once again be able to deliver the best seafood in the world to America's dining tables. I will continue working so that, when the next disaster strikes, relief will not be so long in coming.

people, Ashitaka sets out on a journey to cure the corruption on his arm. Along the way he meets San, a wild woman of the forest raised by wolf spirits. San tells Ashitaka of the humans poisoning the earth and her hatred for them, though she herself is human. The variety of characters that Ashitaka meets all play a role in the story's climax when they face the God of the Forest, the only spirit capable of saving the land from destruction. Environmentalist themes abound in Miyazaki's works, but in this film the issue is front and center, and it couldn't be more well done.

Another film that has a fantastic story and breathtaking animation is "Castle in the Sky." This is my favorite movie directed by Miyazaki, and it was the first film released in 1986 by Studio Ghibli, his animation studio founded alongside colleagues Isao Takahata and Toshio Suzuki.

"Castle in the Sky," known as "Laputa: Castle in the Sky" in other regions, is the story of a young girl, Sheeta, and her flight from captors who are after her and the mysterious pendant she wears. She narrowly escapes kidnapping after falling from a dirigible. As she plummets to earth, her pendant shimmers and causes her to levitate slowly into the arms of Pazu, a young miner boy. Pazu recognizes the symbol on Sheeta's pendant as being from a long ago civilization that lived in the air in flying cities and other structures. In particular, the flying castle Laputa, a location Pazu dreams of being able to find for his father who died before he could set foot on the levitating island. What is the secret of the pendant? Is Laputa real? Filled with twists and turns, the story keeps one on the edge of their seat until the finale.

There are so many films of Miyazaki's and Studio Ghibli's filmography worth mentioning, but I implore you, give these movies a chance just for curiosity's sake. Perhaps you will go on to explore the animation of other countries as well. With sweeping film scores, and colorful characters and fantastical settings, the only question worth asking about these films is—subs or dubs?

Republic

unsuccessful attempt by the Kemper brothers (Nathan, Reuben, and Samuel) of Pinckneyville, Mississippi Territory, to lead such a rebellion.

According to Robert Higgs, Ph.D., the uprising failed mostly because "its leaders miscalculated the strength of proFrench, pro-British, and proSpanish elements, all of whom felt threatened by the proAmerican faction the Kempers represented. Higgs continues by saying the rebellion failed "in part, because many residents recognized that the Kempers were not so much revolutionaries as opportunistic and unscrupulous marauders mouthing political slogans."

A few years later, the idea of the Republic resurfaced again, this time with better leadership and perhaps less unscrupulousness than before. This time the idea of the Republic of West Florida began on the night of September 22-23, 1810, when a group of "disgruntled settlers" from the Mississippi Territory, led by Philemon Thomas, attacked the Spanish fort at Baton Rouge.

In the melee, two Spanish soldiers were killed, and five others, wounded. Later, William Cooper, a staunch Spanish loyalist in the Baton Rouge area, was summarily murdered by these ruffians. Among those Mississippi settlers were the Kemper brothers once again, who had led the earlier, unsuccessful rebellion in 1804. In fact, Reuben Kemper led a small force in an abortive attempt to capture Mobile.

Ultimately, this time the Republic of West Florida established a government which included a constitution patterned after the one in the United States as well as a supreme court and Congress similar to the U. S. St. Francisville, LA became the capital. Under the leadership of President Fulwar Skipwith, the little country existed in theory, and to some degree in reality, for seventy-four days from September 23—December 7, 1810.

It even created the first lone star flag known as "The Bonnie Blue Flag," which was later used by the Confederacy in the War Between the States.

Several accounts show that most of the settlers of West Florida supported the Spanish government. Two Spanish letters in the Lower Mississippi Data Base—one from Benjamin Howard to Simon Favre and another from Spanish official Cayetano Perez of Mobile to the Spanish Governor General Vincente Folchs—support this idea. It seems that most of the settlers of the area wanted nothing to do with the rebel government.

There is no conclusive evidence that the U. S. government directly supported this rebellion. However, there is speculation that there was some "behind the scenes" involvement. In any event the United States profited from the uprising.

The Territorial Governor of Orleans, William C.C. Claiborne, and the Territorial Governor of Mississippi, David Holmes, were not in favor of the formation of the new republic. In fact, they sent reports about the actions of the supporters of the revolution to the U. S. President James Madison.

Ultimately, Claiborne was sent by President Madison to take possession of West Florida, and on December 6, 1810, St. Francisville was taken. On December 10, 1810, Baton Rouge was seized, and the two areas were assimilated into the Orleans Territory. In 1810 only the portion of West Florida within the present state of Louisiana was seized and later the area between the Mississippi and Pearl Rivers; nonetheless, the lands of the Mississippi Gulf Coast were not included.

To finalize the take over of West Florida and afraid of European support from Spain, Britain, and others, on April 8, 1812, President James Madison claimed by proclamation that West Florida belonged to the United States because of the conditions of the Louisiana Purchase of 1803.

Still, the coastal lands were not included.

However, in August 1812, Mississippi Territorial Governor Holmes issued an edict making the entire Mississippi Territorial Gulf Coast, which included present-day states Mississippi and Alabama, one county— Mobile. The area included all of the lands east of the Pearl River, west of the Perdido, and south of the 31st parallel. In December 1812, Mobile County was divided to form two additional counties, Hancock and Jackson. Finally, the remainder of West Florida was ceded to the United States in 1819 with the Adams-Onis Treaty.

MDHS receives $1.4 million federal grant

SEA COAST ECHO

The Mississippi Department of Human Services has been awarded a $1,366,223 grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to improve and modernize application processing in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

The grant will use the SNAP Model Notice Toolkit as a guide to modernize recipient notices and transition to a platform connected to data in the eligibility system to reduce Case and Procedural Error Rates.

"We're excited to be the beneficiary of such a significant amount of federal funds to better serve and assist Mississippians," said Christopher Freeze, MDHS Executive Director. "This will greatly enhance our ability to streamline notices, operate more efficiently and ensure effective communication with SNAP recipients."

The $1.4 million grant represents 27 percent of the $5 million awarded nationwide.

Pirates shut out Bulldogs 42-0 for a homecoming to remember

BY HUNTER DAWKINS
THE GAZEBO GAZETTE

It took only a series and the Pass Christian Pirates found their groove again for homecoming. The Pirates defense dominated the visiting Bulldogs at the line of scrimmage and shut out Perry Central 42-0.

The Pirates (4-2) have not won a homecoming since Sept. 8, 2017, when they defeated the West Harrison Hurricanes.

"We preached playing clean football all week," said Pass Christian Head Football Coach Blake Pennock. "I'm very proud of our defense, as we have taken it on the chin until now."

With the Bulldogs punting after a quick three-and-out possession to open the game, the Pirates quickly marched down the field on seven plays only to allow a sack and an incomplete pass inside the red zone before missing a 32-yard field goal.

After the Pirates forced another punt, Pass Christian senior Dustin "Gunslinger" Allison pick-pocketed the Bulldog defense. In four plays, Allison found senior receiver Andrew Moffett for a 27-yard touchdown pass.

With Pass Christian kicker Davon Klein converting the first out of six extra points, the score was Pirates 7-0 at the end of the first quarter.

Beginning a lengthy 17-play drive in the second quarter, Pass Christian running back Hu Nguyen dove in the end zone to increase the Pirates' lead 14-0.

The Pirates defense wouldn't budge the whole game, stopping the Bulldogs from even converting a first down. Perry Central only crossed mid-field one time during the game.

Back to work, the Pirates offense went with three plays and a 25-yard scamper by Allison for a touchdown with 3:14 left in the half.

On the last play before the half, the Perry Central Bulldogs attempted a punt with a high snap that was recovered by Pass Christian strong safety Kelton Necaie in the end zone for a touchdown.

The halftime score posted was 28-0 with a Pirates lead.

Before the game, Julia Hanson was announced as the 2019 Homecoming Queen for Pass Christian High School.

No let-up came from the Pirates after halftime, as Allison found receiver Kameron White 60 yards for a Pass Christian touchdown with 11:06 left in the third quarter.

Pass Christian secured the victory when Senior Xavian Page recovered a Bulldog fumble from a punt inside the red zone. Three plays later, senior Gordon Ward punched the final ticket to victory for the Pirates from four yards out and a Pass Christian 42-0 lead.

The defense played well led by Seniors Ward and Reese Gormon, not allowing Perry Central across midfield and having 12 tackles for loss.

Allison finished with 17-26 passing for 277 yards, 2 touchdown passes and one rushing touchdown.

Pass Receivers White and Moffett finished with a touchdown apiece. White had 141 yards on seven receptions and Moffett finished with 98 yards on 5 catches.

Next week, Pass Christian (4-2) will host cross-town rival, undefeated Bay High (5-0) in the first district game at Francis McDonald Stadium.

"We know this Bay High team is well-coached and we need to match their intensity," said Pennock. "We want to be on the field offensively."

The "Battle of the Bridge" starts at 7 p.m. on Oct. 4.

On Thursday, Sept. 12, the Hancock Hawks Middle School football team hosted Comer Middle School from Pascagoula, resulting in a victory for both the 7th and 8th grade football teams. Seventh grade quarterback Brayden "Bubba" Hust managed the offense with Ethan Vanacour, Landon Holly and Caleb Necaie scoring touchdowns. Vanacour scored twice. Big contributors to the game were lineman Logan Ladner and Brooks Martinez. In 8th grade action, Quarter back Dylan Moran connected with Matthew Alligood for a touchdown. Buddy Rogers, Michael Washington, Jeffrey Hopgood, and Cayden Lohman all scored a rushing touchdown. Neil Acker returned an interception for a touchdown. Zach Gullung, Casey Wheat and Kristoff Ganier all played well on defense. Hunter Kuhn made a tackle for a safety. Gyanni Smith, Daniel Boone, Jacob Mesa, Devon Biddle and Bryce Ladner all did a great job on the offensive line.

Rock-a-Chaws clip Eagles 28-21 at Morgan City

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws made their second consecutive 140-mile one way trip to play on the gridiron. But, this time the trip through the marsh, cedar trees and elevated roadways to Morgan City was worth the ride as SSC clipped the Central Catholic Eagles 28-21.

The Rocks (3-2) and the Eagles (1-2) played a relatively clean first half before the wear and tear affected focus and execution to slow the second half down.

Central Catholic got on the board first with a Ryan Miller to Freddie Calloway 17-yard scoring aerial with 8:02 left in the first quarter.

Adlai Urbina converted on the PAT to make the score 7-0.

After two stellar defensive stops by SSC led by the charge of Lee Negrotto, Jaxon Favre, Blake Bilich, Trustin Northington and others, the Rocks got on the scoreboard. Max Favre tossed a 20-yard scoring aerial to Bradley Darby and Gene Hoffman converted the PAT to knot the score at 7-7 with 2:19 left in the half.

The Eagles got the ball to start the third quarter and went on a methodical drive but consecutive sacks by Negrotto and company thwarted the drive.

The Rocks took the lead on a 17-yard scoring pass from Favre to Dallas Payne with 2:48 left in the quarter. Hoffman's PAT was good and the score was 14-7.

Davidyione Bias knotted the score at 14-14 with a 53-yard run with 1:12 left in the third quarter. Urbina converted on the PAT.

The Eagles intercepted Favre at midfield on the ensuing possession. Four plays later the Eagles reached the endzone on a two-yard run by Bias with 10:24 left in the game. Urbina's PAT made the score 21-14.

But, the Rocks answered. Favre tossed a 33-yard scoring pass to Darby with 8:32 left in the game. Hoffman's PAT made the score 21-21.

Northington intercepted the Eagles at the Rock 30 yard line on the ensuing possession with 4:25 left to breathe life into the SSC sideline.

It took one play to reclaim the lead as Favre and Payne hooked up for a 52-yard scoring pass with 4:10 left to play. Hoffman converted on the PAT to make the score 28-21.

Northington put the icing on the cake with his second pick of the night with this one coming in the end zone with 60 seconds left to play.

SSC head coach Nate Encrapera commented, "Central Catholic was ready to play ans we knew they would be. What they do, they do very well and it showed tonight. We emphasized all week to the boys not to take them lightly. The layoff was hard on us and we are banged up some. But, it feels good to get the win after a month on the road. Dallas Payne and Lee Negrotto has tremendous games on opposite ends of the field. Lee's work ethic is solid on defense and we are putting Dallas in different positions to create matchups and his coach ability has been great. Josh Jordan continues to coach up our special teams which is a most important aspect that everyone would love to spend more time on. It is a factor in every game. This week we have to prepared for Moss Point and Rueben Lee who has drastically improved his throwing. They always have athletes and cause matchup problems. We will have to earn everything we get next week."

The Rocks were paced by Favre who was 18-for-31 passing for 255 yards, four touchdowns and a pick. Payne led the receivers with seven catches for 128 yards and two scores while Darby had two catches for 53 yards and two scores.

Negrotto tallied nine tackles and Jaxon Favre had seven stops to lead the tacklers. Northington had two picks and seven tackles.

The Rocks play Moss Point 'between the walls' next Friday. It is the first game back home for SSC in four weeks and will be Homecoming for SSC. Game time is set for 7pm. See you at the game!

Hawks fall 35-7 to Greyhounds at Ocean Springs

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock Hawks took a trip across the Coast to Ocean Springs on Friday night to play the Greyhounds in a division matchup.

The Hawks had several opportunities throughout the game to pull the score within one possession but eventually gave up big plays and turnovers that led to the final score of 35-7 on the road.

Hancock head coach Neil Lollar stated, "We gave up some deep balls early in the game. We did not execute at key moments of the game. We had a couple of opportunities when it was 21-7 to pull within one score but it was a game where it seemed like nothing clicked for us on either side of the ball." Robertson scored the Hawks (3-2, 0-1) lone touchdown of the game when he picked up a loose ball on the one-yard line of the Greyhounds and scurried into the endzone for the score. Austin Hyde converted on the PAT.

Lollar added, "Now, we have to get ready for St. Martin next week. We have them at home. They have speed and playmakers. We will have to control the ball on offense to keep it out of their hands. On defense, we need to execute and remain focused."

The Yellow Jackets were thumped by Gulfport 47-16 last night.

Game time is set for 7 p.m. at Brett Favre Field in Kiln.

Pass Christian Middle School – Homecoming Maids

Photos courtesy of Pass Christian School District

Students at Pass Christian Middle School prepared for homecoming week on Friday September 20th by voting for their 6th, 7th, and 8th grade homecoming maids. The young ladies running for homecoming maids campaigned for votes using posters and t-shirts, and even gave speeches to their entire grade levels, which took a lot of preparation. These ladies wrote and practiced their speeches ahead of time and presented them courageously in front of their peers and teachers. After students listened to the candidates' speeches, they were then able to cast their votes electronically, giving them a realistic experience similar to that of real voting at the polls on an election day. Thank you our Student Council Sponsors who organized this exciting opportunity for students – Mrs. Charlene Stephens and Ms. Savannah Rishel – and thank you to the other teachers and administrators who helped at this event by supervising the voting process and taking photos!

When Life Hands You Lemons, Grab a Chicken

BY LINDA BIGLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The other day as I was picking berries out of my salad, I realized that most of the fruit I enjoy eating is of the citrus variety. However, I will allow the occasional apple into my fruit repertoire as long as I have some peanut butter to put on it.

Lemon and chicken are a wonderful combination. The following recipes contain both ingredients.

CHICKEN PICCATA

- 6 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- One half cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- One fourth teaspoon white pepper, black pepper is fine
- 6 tablespoons butter, divided
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- One third cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 1 fourth cup capers, drained
- 1 lemon, thinly sliced
- 2 tablespoons chopped,

fresh flat leaf parsley

Place each chicken breast between two sheets of parchment paper or plastic wrap and flatten with the smooth side of a meat mallet or rolling pin. (In a pinch, use a wine bottle.) Combine the flour, salt, and pepper, place on parchment paper or waxed paper. Dredge the chicken breasts in the flour mixture.

Place 3 tablespoons butter and the olive oil in a large skillet set over medium heat. Add the dredged chicken breast to the skillet and cook about 4 minutes on each side or until lightly browned. Add the remaining butter if necessary. Remove the cooked chicken to paper a paper towel lined platter, keep warm in an oven set at 200 degrees. Add the remaining butter, if any, to the pan juices along with the lemon juice and capers, bring to a boil while stirring. Remove from the heat, stir in the lemon slices. Remove the chicken from the oven and discard the paper towels. Place the chicken the chicken on the platter, pour the lemon mixture over the chicken and garnish with the parsley.

- Serves 4 to 6
- LEMON-ROSEMARY CHICKEN
- 2 cups olive oil
- 1 cup freshly squeezed lemon juice, you can use the frozen, but not the stuff in the plastic lemons or on the shelf.
- 6 cloves garlic, peeled and minced
- 3 bay leaves
- 2 tablespoons dried rosemary, crushed
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon ground pepper
- 2 chickens (about 4 pounds each) cut up or you can use 16 pieces of your favorite bone in chicken parts. Do not use boneless chicken.

Lemon wedges and rosemary sprigs for garnish

Combine olive oil, lemon juice, garlic, bay leaves, dried rosemary, salt, and pepper in a bowl and mix well. Place chicken pieces in a large shallow dish or 2-gallon plastic freezer bag. Pour the lemon mixture over the chicken. Cover and refrigerate overnight, turning occasionally.

Prepare your outdoor grill or preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Remove chicken from marinade. Place marinade in a pan and bring to a boil over medium heat, reduce to a simmer and cook for about 5 minutes.

Grill chicken, turning about every 10 minutes and basting with the marinade, until chicken tests done. If cooking in the oven, place chicken in a shallow baking pan, place in the oven and cook about 45 minutes or until chicken tests done. Baste with the marinade about every 10 minutes. Remove chicken from heat source, garnish with lemon wedges and rosemary sprigs, and serve immediately.

- Serves 6 to 8
- LEMON ALMOND CHICKEN
- One third cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
- One half cup olive oil, divided
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 2 cloves garlic, peeled

- and minced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- One half teaspoon Tabasco sauce
- 6 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch, mixed with 1 tablespoon water
- 1 tablespoon butter
- One half cup sliced almonds, lightly toasted
- Garnish: 1 lemon, thinly sliced and 2 tablespoons Chopped flat leaf parsley

In a bowl combine lemon juice, one fourth cup olive oil. Dijon mustard, minced garlic, salt and Tabasco: whisk until ingredients are well combined. Place chicken breast in a single layer in a shallow non-reactive dish. Pour lemon mixture over the chicken, turn to coat. Cover and let sit at room temperature for 1 hour or refrigerate for 2 to 3 hours. When ready to cook, remove the chicken from the marinade. Drain the marinade and set aside. Place a large, heavy skillet over medium high heat, add the remaining olive oil and sauté the chicken for about 3 minutes on each side or until lightly browned.

Remove the chicken to a platter. Pour off all but about 1 tablespoon of the chicken drippings.

Return the skillet to the burner set on medium high heat. Add the chicken broth and remaining drained marinade, bring to a boil, stir in the cornstarch mixture, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken. Stir in the butter. Return the chicken to the skillet and simmer until heated through, about 2 or 3 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in almonds, arrange chicken on a heated platter, pour sauce over the chicken and garnish with lemon wedges and chopped parsley.

Serves 4 to 6

Road Trip!

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I'm taking my cat "Frederica" on her first long road trip, across three states to my parents' house. Do you have any tips for keeping cats calm and safe in the car?—Anne in Buffalo, New York

DEAR ANNE: I sure do! Traveling with pets can be much easier with some planning and forethought. A pet restraint or carrier is essential to keep them safe inside the car, but that's just one of the things to consider.

Check these off your to-do list:

- Make sure Frederica's vaccinations and license are up to date, and that the tags are on her travel collar.
- Put an LED pendant on her collar in case you need to take her out at night.
- Include a sturdy leash, and always put Frederica on the leash when she's not in her carrier.
- Make copies of her vaccination record and a list of medications.
- Prepare her carrier ahead of time: Make sure it has a comfy cushion in the base (one that doesn't slide around), a favorite toy and a no-spill water dispenser.
- If your cat gets super-anxious during car trips, talk to the veterinarian about giving her medication.
- Staying overnight in a hotel? Search for pet-friendly hotels online.
- Never leave Frederica alone in the car — take her with you during stops and breaks.
- Call your parents and ask them to prepare a space for Frederica's bed and a spot for her litter box. She'll settle in much faster when you put those two items in place as soon as you get there.

Meet Gwen, a beautiful, 2 year old Catahoula Leopard Dog/Black-mouth Cur mix, who is ready to put motherhood behind her and to enjoy the single life again. This sweet, loveable gal arrived at our shelter quite pregnant, and gave birth to a litter of precious pups shortly after arrival. Her babies are in a loving foster home awaiting rescue transport to Maine. So now it is Gwen's turn to have a "Happily Ever After". We are seeking a loving, responsible home for her, preferably with an active family, single person or couple. She is a very happy, playful gal who would thrive in home where outdoor activity and adventures were regular occurrences. Gwen has many doggie friends at the shelter, so she could join a family with existing family dogs. A home with a fenced backyard is a must. She would be an awesome best buddy for school aged kids looking for a fun yet affectionate playmate. Gwen is very treat and praise motivated, so we are encouraged that basic training will be a breeze. Please stop by the shelter at 7175 Texas Flat Rd, Kiln, to meet this sweetheart of a gal. She is still trying to recover her pre-baby physique, but nonetheless, she is a beauty in our eyes! Call 228 466 4516 for more information, and visit our Facebook page, Hancockcountyanimalshelter, MS, to see more pictures of Gwen, and of the many other wonderful, adoptable animals looking for their forever homes

OVERCOMING THE PROBLEM OF DISCOURAGEMENT

BY GARY ANDREWS
GARY@GADEVOTIONALS.COM

It doesn't matter where life takes you there are going to be times of disappointment and discouragement. It seems to be one of life's problems that cannot be avoided and I firmly believe that everyone that has the opportunity to grow older and be a part of society will face these problems.

I can remember many times, over my years of life that God has allowed me to have, when life itself seemed to not be what I wanted it to be. Whether it was a ballgame that I played in when I was a youngster and hated losing or maybe a job promotion gone awry when I was a young adult, discouragement always set in and it left me wondering what I could have done to make it better or a winning situation.

I remember on occasions when I wanted to win so much that I would pray for victory. I always thought that praying would make everything I wanted possible, but was so disappointed on several occasions when all did not go my way.

As I grew in my faith of the Lord and through attending church and being around learned Bible scholars I was taught that it was not about me and it was about Jesus. Many times I wished for something foolish that I thought was good for me or my family only to find out Jesus knew better than I what I really needed. Was I disappointed? Yes, just as many of you are today! Did I think it would make a difference in my life if things were not the way I wanted them? Yes, just as many of us today continue to believe. Do I trust in the Lord to see me through and pray to Him for continued guidance? Yes, because I know the end result of this time on earth is eternal life with my Lord and Savior.

Since we know where our eternal heritage is going to be and who it is going to be with, then why do we fret so much and become so bothered by problems that face us on earth? They will be short lived and overcome unless Jesus is not in control and Savior of our life.

We are told in Psalm 142:3; "When my spirit grows faint within me, it is you who know my way. In the path where I walk men have hidden a snare for me."

This earthly life is always going to have challenges, problems, and disappointments. Whether it will be an unexpected illness, a financial crisis, or other issues and our life seems to be hopeless and without help, we know that our hope is in God's grace and He will eventually see us through. All of our anxiety will be overcome if we talk to the Lord and give Him all of our concerns and burdens.

Our hope and future is not on this earth but in our heavenly home with Jesus. If we will stay focused on this then all of our days will always be good and bring a better tomorrow.

Prayer: Thank you Lord for the assurance of you being with me each and every moment of my life. I pray for guidance that I will never forget that you are in control and all I need to do is listen to your voice. Amen.

PANSIES SUCH AS THESE MATRIX SCARLET COME IN A WIDE RANGE OF COLORS AND STYLES AND GIVE NONSTOP COLOR THROUGH THE WINTER.

MSU EXTENSION SERVICE

Fall has officially arrived, although temperatures remain summer-ish. But when the calendar changes, it's time to start thinking about the cool-season annual colors to be planted and enjoyed during the winter months.

Most home gardeners, including me, will grow the annual color most associated with the cool season, so, of course, that means pansies.

Very soon, garden centers will be flooded with flats of these colorful blooms ready to transplant.

My favorite pansy to grow in my Gulf Coast landscape has to be the Matrix series.

And despite their name, Matrix pansies are tough garden plants.

There is a dizzying number of options available in this series. The range of colors and styles available means there is a Matrix pansy just for you. These pansies give non-stop color to get you through the winter.

If you're undecided about flower color, a great option is to select a mixed series.

Matrix pansies are also available in color-coordinated mixes instead of the traditional random color mixes. That way, you get to enjoy multiple colors without having to make a definite decision.

One of my Matrix favorites happens to be the Coastal Sunrise Mix.

In fact, this series was my introduction to Matrix pansies.

It features a mix of three colors: deep blue, ruby red and peachy gold.

Another great series is Lavender Shades, which has an outstanding mix of flower colors that range from dark purple to wispy lavender and pure white. Select Amber Mix if you like a mix of warmer colors.

The clear orange, yellow and lemon colors are fantastic.

Pansies traditionally had black blotches sometimes referred to as "faces." But sometimes these blotched pansies don't quite fit in with a color scheme, so there are also pansies with pure colors. Most of these have a small yellow eye in the center.

Matrix pansies have freely branching growth habits and reach about 8 inches tall and wide.

When massed together, as pansies were meant to be planted, they create an impressive, colorful landscape carpet.

Matrix pansies have huge flowers held above the foliage by strong stems that allow the petals to flutter in the slightest breeze. Whether you grow them in the ground or in containers, maintain consistent root zone moisture and feed with a water-soluble fertilizer, even during the winter.

Buying your Matrix pansies now will give you the best selection and allow you to avoid the crowds later in the season.

Don't worry that some of your summer annuals have gotten a second wind and may be looking nice again.

It won't last. And in a month, your pansies will be pansying and ready for the months of the real cool season.
